From troops in the field to the world's busiest international airports, military, police and security professionals depend on the powerful illumination provided by the INOVA T-Series of LED flashlights. Designed for mission critical use, the T-Series is engineered to withstand the rigors of tough duty and extreme environmental conditions. A performance lighting line of exceptional durability and proven reliability, the T-Series has the range of sizes, tactical switch designs and perfect balance for operational excellence. In threatening situations where far-reaching brightness, handling responsiveness and product trustworthiness is crucial, the T-Series is the outright leader in its category.

The INOVA T4 is the perfect example of leading-edge technology and welcome convenience in a rechargeable best-in-class LED flashlight. The most advanced lithium ion rechargeable available today, it combines durability, compact size and confident handling with lower battery replacement costs. The T4 projects a uniform light up to 350 feet for up to two hours. Its battery can be recharged hundreds of times and without being fully discharged. Professionals find the T4 fully up to the most rigorous testing situations.
