Dain Ironfoot was one of the greatest Dwarven warriors in Middle-earth. As Lord of the Iron Hill Dwarves in the East, when called, he led his army to aid Thorin in the defense of Erebor. Dain's heavy plate mail battle armor was both regal and dangerous. The helm was adorned with boar motifs, including tusk-like protrusions on the crest-front, which was a tall ridge of jagged, red-tipped boar hair. This authentically detailed collectible is a reproduction of the CGI digital model used in the motion picture, The Hobbit: The Battle of the Five Armies. The helm is crafted in leather lined polyresin, with precisely-molded details and coloring. It is presented with a polystone and wood display stand and includes a certificate of authenticity
