The Shikoto Eternal Edge Katana is hand-forged from premium T10 carbon steel, renowned for its strength and durability. The blade with bohi is clay-tempered (differentially hardened) with an impressive edge hardness of 62 HRC and visible hamon, ensuring exceptional sharpness and cutting performance. Handle covered in ray skin and secured with two mekugi pins, the tang construction guarantees traditional reliability and long-lasting strength. Each katana also comes with a Certificate of Authenticity, confirming its quality and craftsmanship. This makes it the perfect choice both for cutting practice and as a striking collectible katana.

The stylish wooden saya (scabbard) is finished with a glossy black lacquer, giving the sword timeless elegance while ensuring durability. Its traditional samurai tsuba accentuates the warrior's spirit, making this samurai sword not only a reliable training weapon but also a remarkable piece of art.

This is an outstanding katana for collectors, martial arts practitioners, and Japanese sword enthusiasts.

Delivered in a solid wooden display box, the Shikoto Eternal Edge Katana makes a prestigious and ready-to-gift samurai sword, an ideal present for any serious collector or practitioner.
