

Gladius - The Pompeii

Category:

Product ID: 500598

Manufacturer: Windlass Steelcrafts

Price: 193.00 EUR

Availability: Out of stock

See it in our store.

Circa 100 BC The Roman Army's approach to warfare was direct and pragmatic. It chose the Gladius as its principal sidearm because it was practical, efficient and excelled in any close combat situation. The later version (we offer you the Pompeii) were not waisted and had a shorter point but were just as effective and easier to make. Turned ash and maple handle. 2" wide. This is the sword that conquered most of the known world. High carbon steel. Made by Windlass Steelcrafts®. Originals were excavated from the ruins of Pompeii. You can see examples in H. Russell Robinson's book "What The Soldiers Wore On Hadrian's Wall".

500598 - not sharp

500598s - sharpened

Product parameters:

- Total length: 71,1 cm
- Blade length: 49,5 cm
- Weight: 1,08 kg
- Type: not sharp

Windlass Steelcrafts